January 21 A Life in the Wild

Renowned wildlife photographer, passionate conservationist, grizzly bear champion, Thomas Mangelsen, in person. Featured on 60 Minutes. Exhibition opening at COSI.

January 28 Ice on Fire

Leonardo DiCaprio's newest documentary highlights firsthand accounts of people at the forefront of the climate crisis, with insights from scientists, farmers, innovators and others. Traditional renewable energy sources and new ones featured. It's compelling yet hopeful.

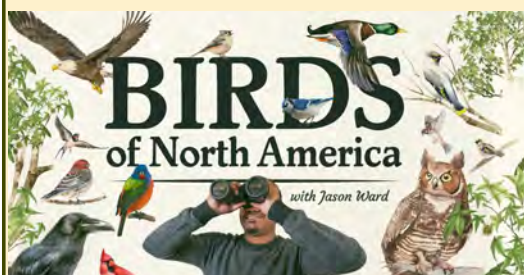

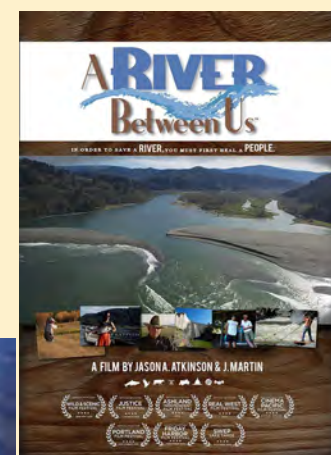

February 4 A River Between Us

Overcoming injustice/inequality, fought-over water rights, and community divides on the Klamath River in OR & CA, the largest river restoration project in America may just happen. Co-leader of the consensus, film producer and narrator, Jason Atkinson, in person.

February 11 Earthrise and Earth Days

Celebrating the 50th Anniversary of Earth Day. Looking back to 20 million people participating April 22, 1970. Eyewitness remembrances. Seeing Earth from space for the first time. An Ohio State student will ask: How can we have an Earth worth celebrating in 2070?

February 18 Birds of North America

A young, passionate birder, Bronx, NYC -native and National Audubon staffer, Jason Ward will share episodes from Seasons 1 and 2 of his video series on Topic.com. He's blazing a trail for children growing up in under-served communities to love and understand our natural world.

February 25 Living Soil

Health is vital for humans, yes? Well, soil health is too -- for our economy, for food, fiber, bio-fuels, and now we know, for our environment too. By providing ecosystem services like nutrient and carbon management. Hear from Rattan Lal, soil and carbon scientist, one of the best-known Ohio State faculty in the world.

March 3 The Devil We Know

Lax oversight of industrial pollutants in West Virginia and corporate greed contributed to the death of cattle and cancer in people. A Cincinnati corporate attorney decided to help local residents. See the film. Hear from the attorney, Rob Bilott, whose book is out, and a major motion picture.
