*The Graduate School requires 4 committee members on a candidacy examination and 3 on the final oral examination (defense). The ENRGP Representative is selected by the student and advisor as with the three other committee members, will stay on the committee through the candidacy examination, and may stay on the committee after the candidacy exam with the agreement of the other committee members.

This person must be a member of the Environment and Natural Resources graduate faculty and shall be a full, voting member of the student's Advisory/Examination Committee. The ENRGP Representative should be a faculty member who can contribute to the student's research but also remain objective and ensure that graduate program and Graduate School rules and procedures are adhered to as the student prepares for candidacy. See the ENRGP Handbook section 3.7 and 3.13 for more information.
