Pearl Market Manager
aka. Locavore Extraordinaire, Pearl Market Swami, The Big Tomato

You crave all things local, and you are Downtown Columbus’ biggest fan. But not just that, you want to make Downtown even better, and you want to shout to the world that CBUS rocks! When you stroll through Downtown you see all the cool things underway, and you know you must be part of the next big thing.

Pearl Market needs you. We have an immediate opening for a market manager, but it can be so much more. We want your vision, planning expertise and elbow grease. Pearl Market starts in less than a month in Lynn and Pearl Alleys, and it runs every Tuesday and Friday through mid-October. So, to say you must hit the ground running is a wee understatement.

The position right now is a temporary one, which will wrap up at the end of October, but if things go well, we might want you to become part of our posse at Capital Crossroads SID where you will be part of a small (and mighty) team of people who take ideas and launch them into full blown programs. It’s a great place for someone who wants to stretch beyond what she or he can, and then go a little further. The payoff? You get to see your plans in action, and everyone you work with is as passionate about downtown as you.

Below are some nuts and bolts of what we need right now. Read it over, and let us know what you think. Since we need someone right away, we will interview viable candidates immediately. Oh, and if you’re wondering why there is an immediate need for a new market master? Well, our Market Guru landed something too good to pass up.

Nuts and Bolts:

Hours: 30-40 hours per week, temporary through October 31, 2017

- Collect booth, storage, and other fees
- Design and set up market, manage market crew
- Set up tents and help vendors nab the perfect spot on market days
- Comply with community regulations
- Work with area property and business owners
- Stay safe and keep our customers safe
- Chat with vendors, keep them informed, Be Happy
- See a new crafter or farmer out and about? Bring them in
- Paperwork, yep, there’s some of that too—details, details
- Promote the market—shout it to the world how great Pearl Market is Sound like something up your alley (sorry, we couldn’t resist the pun), send us your resume to mvconte@sidservices.com. We’ll be in touch.
